

Working with police forces in Canada and around the world.

G4S can support police agencies through increased monetary value, improved service levels, national surge capacity, and effective security management. Additional value can be found in the provision of specialist knowledge, expertise and focused training on an as needed basis. We understand the challenges and pressures facing those in the policing sector and our services are tailored to alleviate these concerns. In engaging G4S for non-core activities, scarce resources are freed up and the sector is able to do more for less in and for the communities they serve.
