A Message from the President

Team,

This summer, I encourage you to do two things: learn how to avoid heat-related illnesses and complete our 2017 Employee Engagement Survey.

Know the signs

By following a few simple steps you can ensure that you and your team are safe on post. It's important to know the signs of heat-related illness because acting quickly can prevent more serious medical conditions and may even save a life.

Heat Stroke is the most serious heat-related illness and requires immediate medical attention. Symptoms include: confusion, fainting, seizures, very high body temperature and hot, dry skin or profuse sweating. CALL 911 if a coworker shows signs of heat stroke.

Heat Exhaustion is also a serious illness. Symptoms include: headache, nausea, dizziness, weakness, thirst and heavy sweating. Heat fatigue, and heat rash are less serious, but they are still signs of too much heat exposure.

If you or a coworker has symptoms of heat-related illness, tell your supervisor right away. If you can, move the person to a shaded area and loosen his/her clothing, give him/her water (a little at a time), and cool him/her down with ice packs or cool water. Have someone stay with your coworker until help arrives.

Practice Prevention

Most heat-related health problems can be prevented with the following steps:

Drink water every 15 minutes, even if you are not thirsty. Rest in the shade to cool down.

Know the signs of heat-related illness and keep an eye on fellow workers.

Be sure to get used to the heat and allow yourself the time to build up a tolerance.

2017 Employee Engagement Survey

In April, we launched a months-long 2017 Global Employee Engagement Survey, which goes to every employee in the United States, as well as all G4S colleagues around the world. This survey is both anonymous and voluntary.

The Employee Engagement Survey is conducted every two years to gather your views about the organization. Conducting a regular survey allows us to assess whether we are living up to our commitment to protect, respect, involve, develop and engage our employees, so we can deliver great service to our customers. Your answers allow us to address key issues identified during the survey.

Take a look at the directions on the right hand side of this page. Sign on today to provide your feedback. Your opinion matters and ensures that we continue to improve as a company.

Sincerely,

Drew Levine

Did You Know About?

G4S Safety Net is designed to assist G4S employees serving in the National Guard and Military Reserves and is another way that we thank those who have or are currently serving in the military.

Local offices support employee/service members and their families in a variety of ways, including:

- Creating a volunteer resource pool to help in times of emergency, such as child-care, unexpected moves, repairs/maintenance, and many other services.
- Budget a mid-tour gift certificate for the family to use.
- Send "Thinking of You" cards in support of the employee and their family.
- Direct employee/service members and their families to our G4S Military Communities for further support and guidance by others within the G4S and military community.

For more information, contact your local HR team or shelley.gordon@usa.g4s.com.

Extraordinary Employees Doing Extraordinary Work

Shout Outs is a weekly video series that highlights G4S USA employees who have made a meaningful impact on clients and colleagues by displaying our values, consistently leading by example, and inspiring others with their professionalism. Shout Outs are sent to all employees with a G4S USA email address and is delivered to front line employees via the email address they have on file with their local office. To subscribe to Shout Outs and other G4S publications, contact your local HR team and provide them with your email address.

G4S Security Officer Prevents Tragedy in California

CPO Jorge Martinez

SANTA ANA, Calif.
March 15 - CPO Jorge Martinez prevented a man attempting to jump in front of a train three times at Santa Ana Regional Transport Center (look for "G4S Security Officer Prevents Tragedy in California" in the archive).

G4S Security Officer Receives Support from Tulsa Community

G4S Security Officer Mike Oyebola (third from the right) at work at Tulsa City Hall

TULSA, Okla., March 28 - When G4S Security Officer Mike Oyebola's mother passed away, workers at Tulsa City Hall and members of the Tulsa community raised money through a GoFundMe page to help send Security Officer Oyebola home to Nigeria to be with his family (look for "G4S Security Officer receives Support from Tulsa Community" in the archive).

Three G4S Security Officers Protect Patrons in Minneapolis

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 21 - At a retail and hotel complex in Downtown Minneapolis, three drunk men began harassing a group of women. Security Officer Boettcher approached the men, along with Security Officers Slavek Lasey and Dovlet Atayev, and notified local police. The police arrived and detained the men (look for "Three G4S Security Officers Protect Patrons in Minneapolis" in the archive).

G4S Trio Saves Two Lives in Dayton

L to R: G4S Security Officers Clarissa Sampson, Devin Curry and Don Donovan receive Life Safety Awards for their actions at the Dayton Metro Library

DAYTON, Ohio, March 7 - Over the course of eight days, G4S Security Officers Clarissa Sampson, Devin Curry and Don Donovan revived two individuals at the Dayton Metro Library. The three security officers used CPR on each occasion and were recognized with Life Safety Awards in front of the library staff (look for "G4S Trio Saves Two Lives in Dayton" in the archive).

WALKING STRONG

After 25 years of service in the U.S. Army, Chris Casper carries the experience of numerous tours to G4S

Photos Courtesy Chris Casper

Chris Casper is walking on one repaired Achilles tendon and a second that is 25 percent severed. As a result of multiple improvised explosive device (IED) incidents, the bones in his feet are shattered, causing bone fragments to slash one of the tendons and slowly saw through the second. That's what 25 years in the military can do to a human body.

Casper has seen it all: six months in Egypt during the Gulf War, deployment to Panama, two tours in Iraq, and two tours in Afghanistan. Then, as if he couldn't get enough, after retiring from the United States Army on April 1, 2014, Casper returned to Afghanistan as a contractor for a risk management company doing site security. He worked hand-in-hand with Afghan troops, helped secure the compound, and made sure every soldier was fed. By the end of it all, Casper was ready to come home.

Upon returning stateside, Casper did what he thought was best and applied to work in security.

"You do everything to minimize risk (in the military)," Casper said. "Security is that way in a lesser degree. It takes the dedication, the high standard. That's what I like about G4S, the high standard and they recruit military. I got in this program to tell my brothers and sisters that this makes the transition much smoother. You're surrounded by like-minded individuals."

He began working with accounts, doing his best to understand the company and how it worked. Shortly after, an opening as an Area Supervisor IV became available, and Casper immediately applied.

Within his role as Area Supervisor IV in Phoenix, AZ, Casper oversees the security of I I sites, totaling more than 4,000 man-hours per week. He serves as scheduling coordinator, payroll specialist, and operations specialist as well.

"(You need) discipline, drive, and attention to detail," Casper says of the skills required for an Area Supervisor. "All qualities that veterans bring to the table from their background."

From the U.S. Army to G4S, Casper has taken the experiences he used in the military and applied them directly to his job in his civilian life. The attention to detail, ability to lead others and work in a team all have carried over and helped him succeed. And while his past experiences have made him excel, what Casper enjoys most is the people he works with.

"It's been fantastic," Casper said of working with G4S. "I haven't had to worry about a lot of other things that you have in other civilian jobs. I haven't worried about fitting in with my military mindset. I haven't had to change. G4S has accepted me for who I am and what I know and utilized that to make

Chris Casper spent 25 years with the U.S. Army, experiencing six tours to four different countries

G4S Security Officer's Awareness Helps Student in Need

G4S Supervisors Help Security Officer in Need

DESLISLE, Miss. - Following the overnight shift at a chemical company in Mississippi, USO Elvis Marcum, who suffers from COPD, was having trouble breathing. When the shift ended, Sergeant Joseph Haner took USO Marcum to the gate where he used his emergency inhaler, but it didn't help. Sgt. Haner drove USO Marcum to the on-site Emergency Department where he got oxygen and was stabilized. Captain Antonio Arrington drove Marcum home before he went to the Biloxi Veterans Hospital where he was diagnosed with acute RSV virus, a life-threatening diagnosis for adults with COPD. Thanks to the help of Sgt. Haner and Capt. Arrington, USO Marcum was able to recover.

SAN JOSE, Calif. - When Security Officer Raymond Yos didn't report for duty at his assigned time, Site Supervisor Jorge Perez realized this was out of the ordinary. Perez remembered that Yos had been dealing with medical issues and contacted San Jose police to perform a welfare check. When San Jose PD arrived at Security Officer Yos' house, they found him unresponsive on the floor. Paramedics were called and transported Yos to a local hospital. EMS said that if it were not for Perez' quick action and awareness, Yos would not have survived much longer.

Community Service Update

Every month, G4S offices around the United States take part in community service, whether it be donating time, money or resources toward individuals in need or to an important cause. G4S encourages all employees to be involved to help their communities. If you are involved, be sure to submit your work to your regional community service representative.

G4S offices in Hawaii, Florida, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Virginia, North Carolina, Alabama and Arizona raised more than $3,000 in sponsorships in March, and volunteered 125 hours. Throughout the month, G4S offices across the eight states donated money or volunteered time to nine organizations.

In Tucson, the local office teamed with the Arizona Border Protection team (above) to help build homes for those in need through Habitat for Humanity. Alongside future homeowners, the group combined to donate 60 volunteer hours to help people in the Tucson area.

G4S Birmingham assisted the Baptist Health Foundation with their Wine Women and Shoes event (right), helping with the event as “Shoe Guys.” The event raised money for the Baptist Health Foundation, which helps patients and families with needs that aren’t covered under other medical care, such as paying bills and transportation to and from the hospital.

In Honolulu, a pair of G4S Security Officers volunteered at the American Diabetes Step Out Walk. The walk, put on by the American Diabetes Association, raises funds to support people living with diabetes, research, education, and advocacy. There were more than 100 teams and 2,300 walkers during the 2017 walk in Hawaii.

The G4S office in Philadelphia collected and donated non-food items to the Shriner’s Hospital in Philadelphia. The team helped collect items such as activity books, coloring books, crayons, stuffed animals, books, toys and puzzles, among other things. In total, the office created and donated 20 Easter Baskets to the children at the Shriner’s Hospital.

Other G4S offices that volunteered time or money were: Pensacola, Fla., sponsoring the Santa Rosa Kids’ House Charity Cook Off; Headquarters donating money to the Nat Moore Dolphin Charity Foundation; Cleveland, Ohio, providing CPR and First Aid training to the Summit County Children’s Services; Fairfax, Va., taking part in the Washington, D.C. Special Olympics Torch Run; and Greensboro, N.C., volunteering to raise funds for local YMCA kids programs.

G4S Team in Westchester Ensures Safety at Local Hospital

L to R: TSO Dominick Quinones, TSO Teletha Morris, CPO Frank Quinones

WESTCHESTER, N.Y., April 6 - A man, along with his father, brought his daughter into the emergency room. The two men became disruptive when ER staff would not allow them to cut the line. The man's father drew his gun, causing CPO Frank Quinones to ask him to put it away. When he did so, the man initiated a physical altercation with CPO Quinones. TSO Teletha Morris, TSO Dominick Quinones and CPO Quinones were able to subdue the man and remove his handgun until local PD arrived (look for "G4S Team in Westchester Ensures Safety at Local Hospital" in the archive).

G4S Boston Team Aids Local PD

L to R: G4S Security Officers KaRon Coleman, Myriam Pierre, Les Moody, Jai-Ric Bennett

BOSTON, Mass., April 14 - When a patient at a Boston area hospital became unruly, Security Officers KaRon Coleman, Myriam Pierre, Les Moody, and Jai-Ric Bennett intervened and restrained him. Hospital medical staff were able to sedate him and prevent anyone from being injured. Later, the hospital's Director of Security called GM Don Gioncioppo to praise the work of the officers (look for "G4S Boston Team Aids Local PD" in the archive).

G4S Security Officers Help Catch Thief in Milwaukee

L to R: G4S USO Curtis Nealey, USO Marlon Smith, USO Michael Owens, USO Shafonda Thomas

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 19 - G4S Upscale Security Officers Marlon Smith, Curtis Nealey, Michael Owens and Shafonda Thomas were awarded Meritorious Service Silver and Bronze awards for helping to find and detain an individual who stole a battery from a parked car. As USOs Smith and Owens were ending their shift, they noticed a man matching the description. They relayed the information to USO Thomas who dispatched USO Nealey. Police arrived and took the suspect into custody and the stolen property was recovered and returned (look for "G4S Security Officers Help Catch Thief in Milwaukee" in the archive).

G4S CPO Aids Choking Patron

DENVER, Colo., April 26 - When CPO Ben Sherwin was at lunch at a local restaurant, he overheard a choking noise from the group of people sitting behind him. Immediately, CPO Sherwin realized the individual was struggling to breathe and jumped into action. CPO Sherwin performed the Heimlich Maneuver, and after multiple thrusts managed to clear the individual's airway (look for "G4S CPO Aids Choking Patron" in the archive).
